

DIAMONDS

ARE

FOREVER

Micky Joe,

I do have so much I want to say to you but just don't know how. The things for sure, I do know that I love you very much and I always will. I will always be there for you know matter what. We have shared so many good times together. Gigil July 27!!! and of course Jan 15 when we first started dating. When I think about you and me all that comes to my mind are the good times, All of the great times in our special spot. You know we have been through alot together and we made it and we will make it through alot harder ones too.

I Promise you that I will always love you and I always want to be with you. I want to spend the rest of my life by your side. I want us to take care of each other and have a happy life. Baby don't forget any times we've had together. It's going to be real hard for us if we have to be apart but our love will keep us ~~clear~~ I have cried alot of tears over you but I have also smiled alot of smiles over you. You are the only thing that I am really close to and your the only person I want to be with.

The last time I saw you playing I think that I feel in love right then. I was so scared the first times I called you. I just didn't know what to say. I did know that I wanted you and I'm so glad that you wanted me too. We make a good match don't we. Both of us with all of our problems. But we always work them out together, the never had anyone care for me the way you do and I care more for you than anyone. It puts a smile on my face ~~to~~ think about us, we've had some big fights over some silly things and now I just laugh when I think about them. You know if you have any problems come to me I'll fix you right up ok.

Al I do go away and all please for me don't try and be real upset. I ~~do~~ need one of us to be strong because you know that I'm just a big over grown baby that needs you to take care of me. Always remember I will be with you know matter when I am. I love you baby. I don't know what I would do without you. Be good and always love me.

I Love You

Sophs Try Nazis

In Mrs. Baldwin's class we had many trials. In 2nd per. we had three different judges in the Nazi War Crimes trial. Becky Cowley, Angie Smith, Jim Callerame, and Greg Clifton were lawyers, and Phil Gillenwater was the judge. I remember that Angie and Becky would get very mad at Jim and Greg for objecting too much.

I'll Never Forget . . .

I'll never forget the Student Council picnic when Mr. Phipps, Jenny, Cindy and I went canoeing. Cindy was still eating her hamburger when we started splashing each other with the oars. The next moment the canoe tipped over. The slimy water took Cindy's hamburger. We got, tipped again, got in again and started out. On the way down we passed the hamburger, a pickle here, a tomato there.

83-84, A Year Of Cooperation

"I feel that 83-84 has been a good school year," said Principal John Cunningham, "because of the existing co-operation from the staff and student body." Mr. Cunningham also listed several other factors which contributed to the success of this year. There was a strong student council and sponsors that were working together toward improving the school. He also saw evidence of strong community support, especially from the Band Boosters, Athletic Boosters, and Parent Advisory Committee.

"We are looking forward to the 84-85 school year," continued Mr. Cunningham, "because of the enthusiasm displayed by various organizations in planning, the addition of new programs to the academic program, and the first on-site North Central evaluation."

ADMINISTRATION

AND

"I have enjoyed this school year very much," said Vice-Principal Jack Banks. "I think we have an excellent faculty and student body with whom it is easy to work."

Anyone who has ever worked in the office would have to agree that he never worked so hard to keep up with everything which must be done as secretary. MRS. NANCY WORKMAN has earned the admiration of all the faculty and students for the excellent performance of keeping the office operating smoothly and efficiently.

Teacher Retires After 33 Years of Service

Mrs. Mary Katrine Roy retired this year after serving the school system for thirty-three years. She began her teaching career in 1944.

The faculty honored Mrs. Roy with a retirement dinner at the Southern Kitchen. The dinner featured a program of song, poetry and speaking to pay tribute to this dedicated woman.

"I am looking forward to retirement," said Mrs. Roy, "I will not miss teaching, because I will be substituting. I just plan to sit back and enjoy life."

Long ago, the ancients say,
The lord of truth and light
Plucked a lyre, and from it sprang
A child of grace and might.

A child to cheer the fainting hearts
Of soldiers soon to die;
A child to help the children sleep
And make the lovers sigh;

A child to praise the brave and strong
Who fought their fight and won;
A child to raise the weary weak
Whose fight was lost and done;

A child to give the wise repose,
To make the simple smile;
A dream to make downtrodden men
Forget their chains awhile;

A fire to burn, exalted flame,
In souls by muses blessed;
A voice through which far humbler hearts
Might find their hopes expressed;

A grace to urge the feet to dance,
To bring the poets fame;
A child immortal, with us still,
And music is its name!

Students Spend Almost 56,700 Hours In Class Every Year

A representative of the Huntington Beauty School speaks to Miss Saunders' classes.

NEW CLASS AT SHERMAN CALLED PRE-VOCATIONAL EXPLORATION

Five teachers were involved in a new course of study called Pre-Vocational Exploration for ninth grade students; this course exposed students to 16 occupational cluster areas within a nine week rotation period of Business, Environment, Industrial, and Service Laboratory, with the main emphasis highlighting the program, namely, a once a week Guidance Component Area.

The five teachers were Mrs. Farmer, Miss Saunders, Mr. Slone, Mr. Hottle, and Mr. Phipps. Each attended a summer workshop for 2 wks. at Cedar Lakes, as well as attending Marshall U. in the fall and spring - a total of 9 hrs. to prepare for this program.

A college representative shares with students the advantages of her college in the College Day Program held early in the year.

Nedine Carson and Barbie Linville get hair styling in the classroom.

Kermit Kinder speaks to students interested in Glenville College.

Jack Barnett, an EMT with the Fire Department, speaks to pre-vocational students.

Mr. Slone's classes were exposed to candling eggs, animal breeding, fish cutting, agronomy, and various other environmental activities.

In Mr. Phipps' classes students explored jobs related to industry, particularly in the areas of manufacturing, construction, transportation, and fine arts. Each career explored involved hands-on activity.

Students in Mr. Hottle's phase did role playing, saw films on different jobs, and heard lectures from outside resource persons. All this was to give insight on different types of jobs in the business field.

Field trips, filmstrips, and many, many resource people were the highlights of Miss Saunders' phase. There were people of the following backgrounds: postmistress, military scientist, funeral director, pharmacist, EMT, fireman, nurse - just to name a few.

The guidance phase gave Mrs. Farmer the opportunity to counsel students without interrupting another class. She worked with them on decision-making, job resumes, job applications, and interviews.

COLLEGE DAY - FINANCIAL AID WORKSHOP

College Day, as Mrs. Farmer said was "wonderful", as usual. Seventeen colleges were represented from around the state. Many students from the tenth grade-up were interested and attended the event.

There was also a Financial Aid Workshop set up in December. This was for juniors and seniors and their parents to attend. The turn-out was tremendous. Over 100 people attended.

ENGLISH CLASSES

In the 1st semester of Mrs. Judy's college prep class the students spent time learning the mechanics of grammar and the correct procedure for writing essays. During the 2nd semester the students wrote a term paper and analyzed the structure of the novel Lord of the Flies. They also took a field trip to WV State College to become familiar with a college library.

Miss Gurski's class enjoyed poetry presentations, editing groups, re-enactments of famous plays, and a field to U.C. to view open stage performances of Hawthorne and Irving. They also wrote autobiographical "Moments to Remember".

Mrs. Gillispie had her classes do story books for smaller children. They created their own poetry books, made holiday cards, kept journals, and wrote papers on school history.

In May Mrs. Judy's, Mrs. Kirk's, and Mrs. Gillispie's classes met together in the cafeteria to hear a guest speaker Sigmond Olafson talk about Boone County's history. Mr. Olafson came to West Virginia from France in 1919. This exposure was an attempt to preserve the history of the country. "If we don't find out the history now," said Mrs. Gillispie, "it will begone forever."

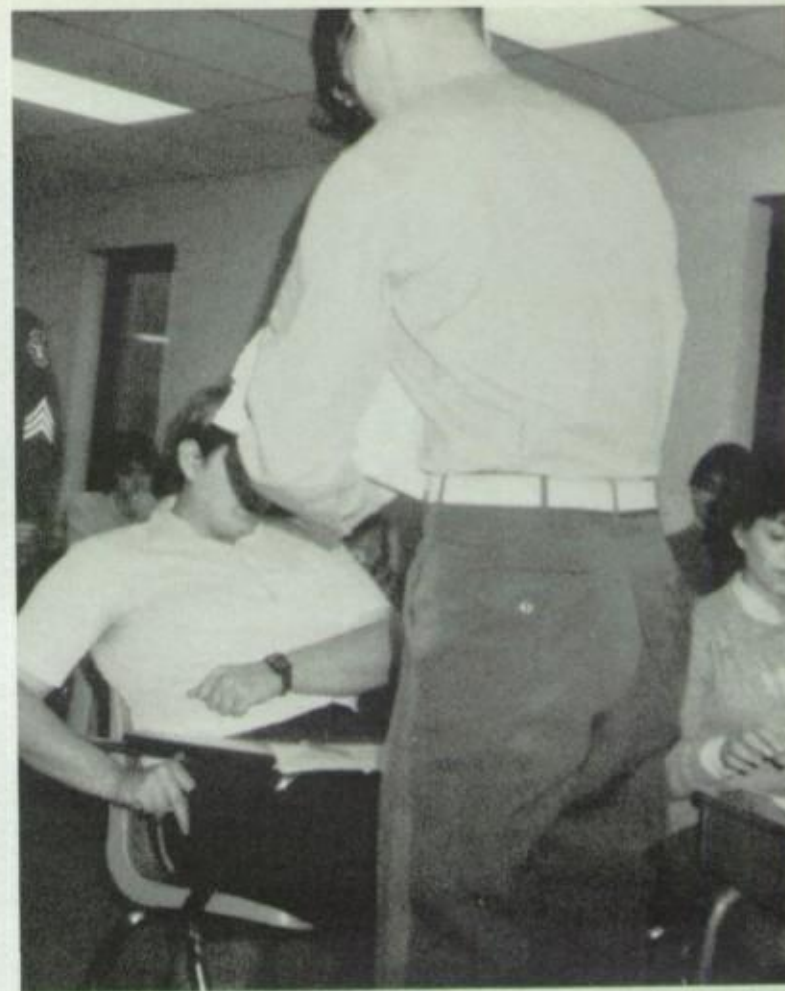

Lloyd Banks, former Sherman teacher and coach, also spoke to the English classes about the history of the county and the school and its traditions.

ENGLISH FAIR

Mildred Sheppard got tired of hearing students say, "I can't do this," so she decided to organize an English Fair to let them prove to themselves that they could do this. The class illustrated something they learned in literature. The class that presented the best over-all project was exempt from the semester test. Also, one person from each class who was judged best in the class was also exempt. How's that for incentive!

English project for the English Fair held by Mrs. Sheppard for the Senior English classes.

The students had a wide range of choices for their projects. They could do a creative writing, draw or paint a picture, make a costume for a favorite character, rewrite one of the stories or poems in modern-day language, etc. The projects were judged on originality, creativity, neatness and treatment of subject matter. The success of the fair illustrated the need for similar projects in other departments.

English classes gather to hear speakers talking about the county and school history.

SOCIAL STUDIES CLASSES

Ms. Lonker's classes participated in a World Culture Awareness Day. Students prepared a dinner of foods from different countries. Everyone took part in activities and games from different regions of the world. Some even dressed the parts of different countries. Ms. Lonker said, "It was a good learning experience that the students enjoyed and participated in 110%."

Virgil Holstein, Steve Halstead, Joni Staggers, Lora Peters, Robbie Whittaker, and Richard Halstead act out a Western in American Studies.

APPALACHIAN CULTURE - JUSTICE IN AMERICA

Appalachian Culture students in Mrs. Arvon's classes discovered their local history by interviewing senior citizens in their communities and preparing written reports of their discoveries. They performed square dances and invited senior citizens to speak. They also prepared an Appalachian dinner and invited grandparents and other senior citizens in the community.

Justice In America was a study of law that was to provide a deeper understanding of the nature of American democracy and the unique positions the citizens hold in American society. The students prepared and acted out "Mock Trials" demonstrating all the procedures followed in a court.

AMERICAN STUDIES II

Mrs. Baldwin began the school year by having students do their geneologies to gain an understanding of their individual historical heritage. They wrote tall tales, put on a western play, "Badland Ballyhoo", and participated in a Labor and Nazi War Crime Trial. They campaigned in the Election of 1912. Mrs. Baldwin said, "This was a very enthusiastic sophomore class."

Juniors Hold MORP To Raise Money For Prom

MORP spelled backwards is prom and backwards was the creative idea for a dance where everything was opposite to the prom as possible. Clothing as well as atmosphere was extremely informal. Who had this idea? The juniors, of course, to raise money for the prom. Even a MORP queen and king were chosen. The queen was CHERYL SAMPSON and the king was MIKE CANTLEY (pictured at right).

Mr. and Miss Sherman

The seniors wanted to keep a tradition which was almost lost - that of a Mr. and Miss Sherman. In the past this popularity contest was one of the biggest events at Sherman. This class decided to revive this event, at least among the members of their own class. Candidates were chosen from each senior homeroom, the members of the class voted, and DANNY CABELL and KATHY HAWKINS were crowned at the last performance of the Senior Follies.

Sally Ride: Ready for Liftoff

Six years ago, a 25-year-old astrophysicist made an instant, go/no-go decision to apply for a spot in the astronaut class of 1978. Sally Ride hasn't looked back since and, next week, the mission specialist will become the first woman to wear the Stars and Stripes into space. For six days, Ride and her four male crewmates aboard the space shuttle Challenger will conduct experiments, launch satellites and fire the imagination of folks back home who dream of going on the 20th century's greatest adventure.

Are the Olympic Games Dead?

The Olympic torch had barely begun its 9,000-mile cross-country journey to Los Angeles last week when the Teletype machines began to chatter with grim news from Moscow: the Soviets had decided to pull out of the 1984 Summer Games. Within days, a half dozen Soviet allies had followed the Russian lead.

What Jesse Jackson Wants

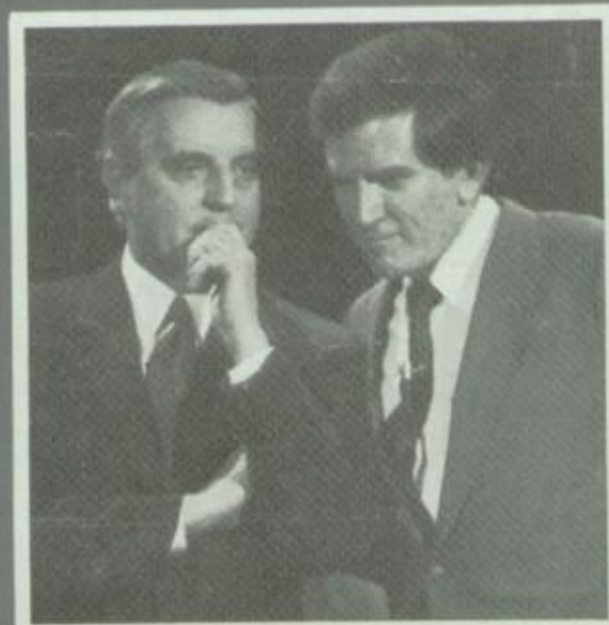

His surprising success in the primaries has already proved the Rev. Jesse Jackson's central point—that the nation's black voters are ready to push for parity within the Democratic Party. Now the bargaining is beginning—and the stakes for the party, for Walter Mondale and for black America are enormous.

Walter Mondale popped a dramatic question last week: he asked New York Rep. Geraldine Ferraro to be the first woman in history to share the presidential ticket of a major party. It was a bold move that galvanized Democrats on the eve of their nominating convention in San Francisco and almost certainly crushed the lingering hopes of Mondale's rivals, Gary Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

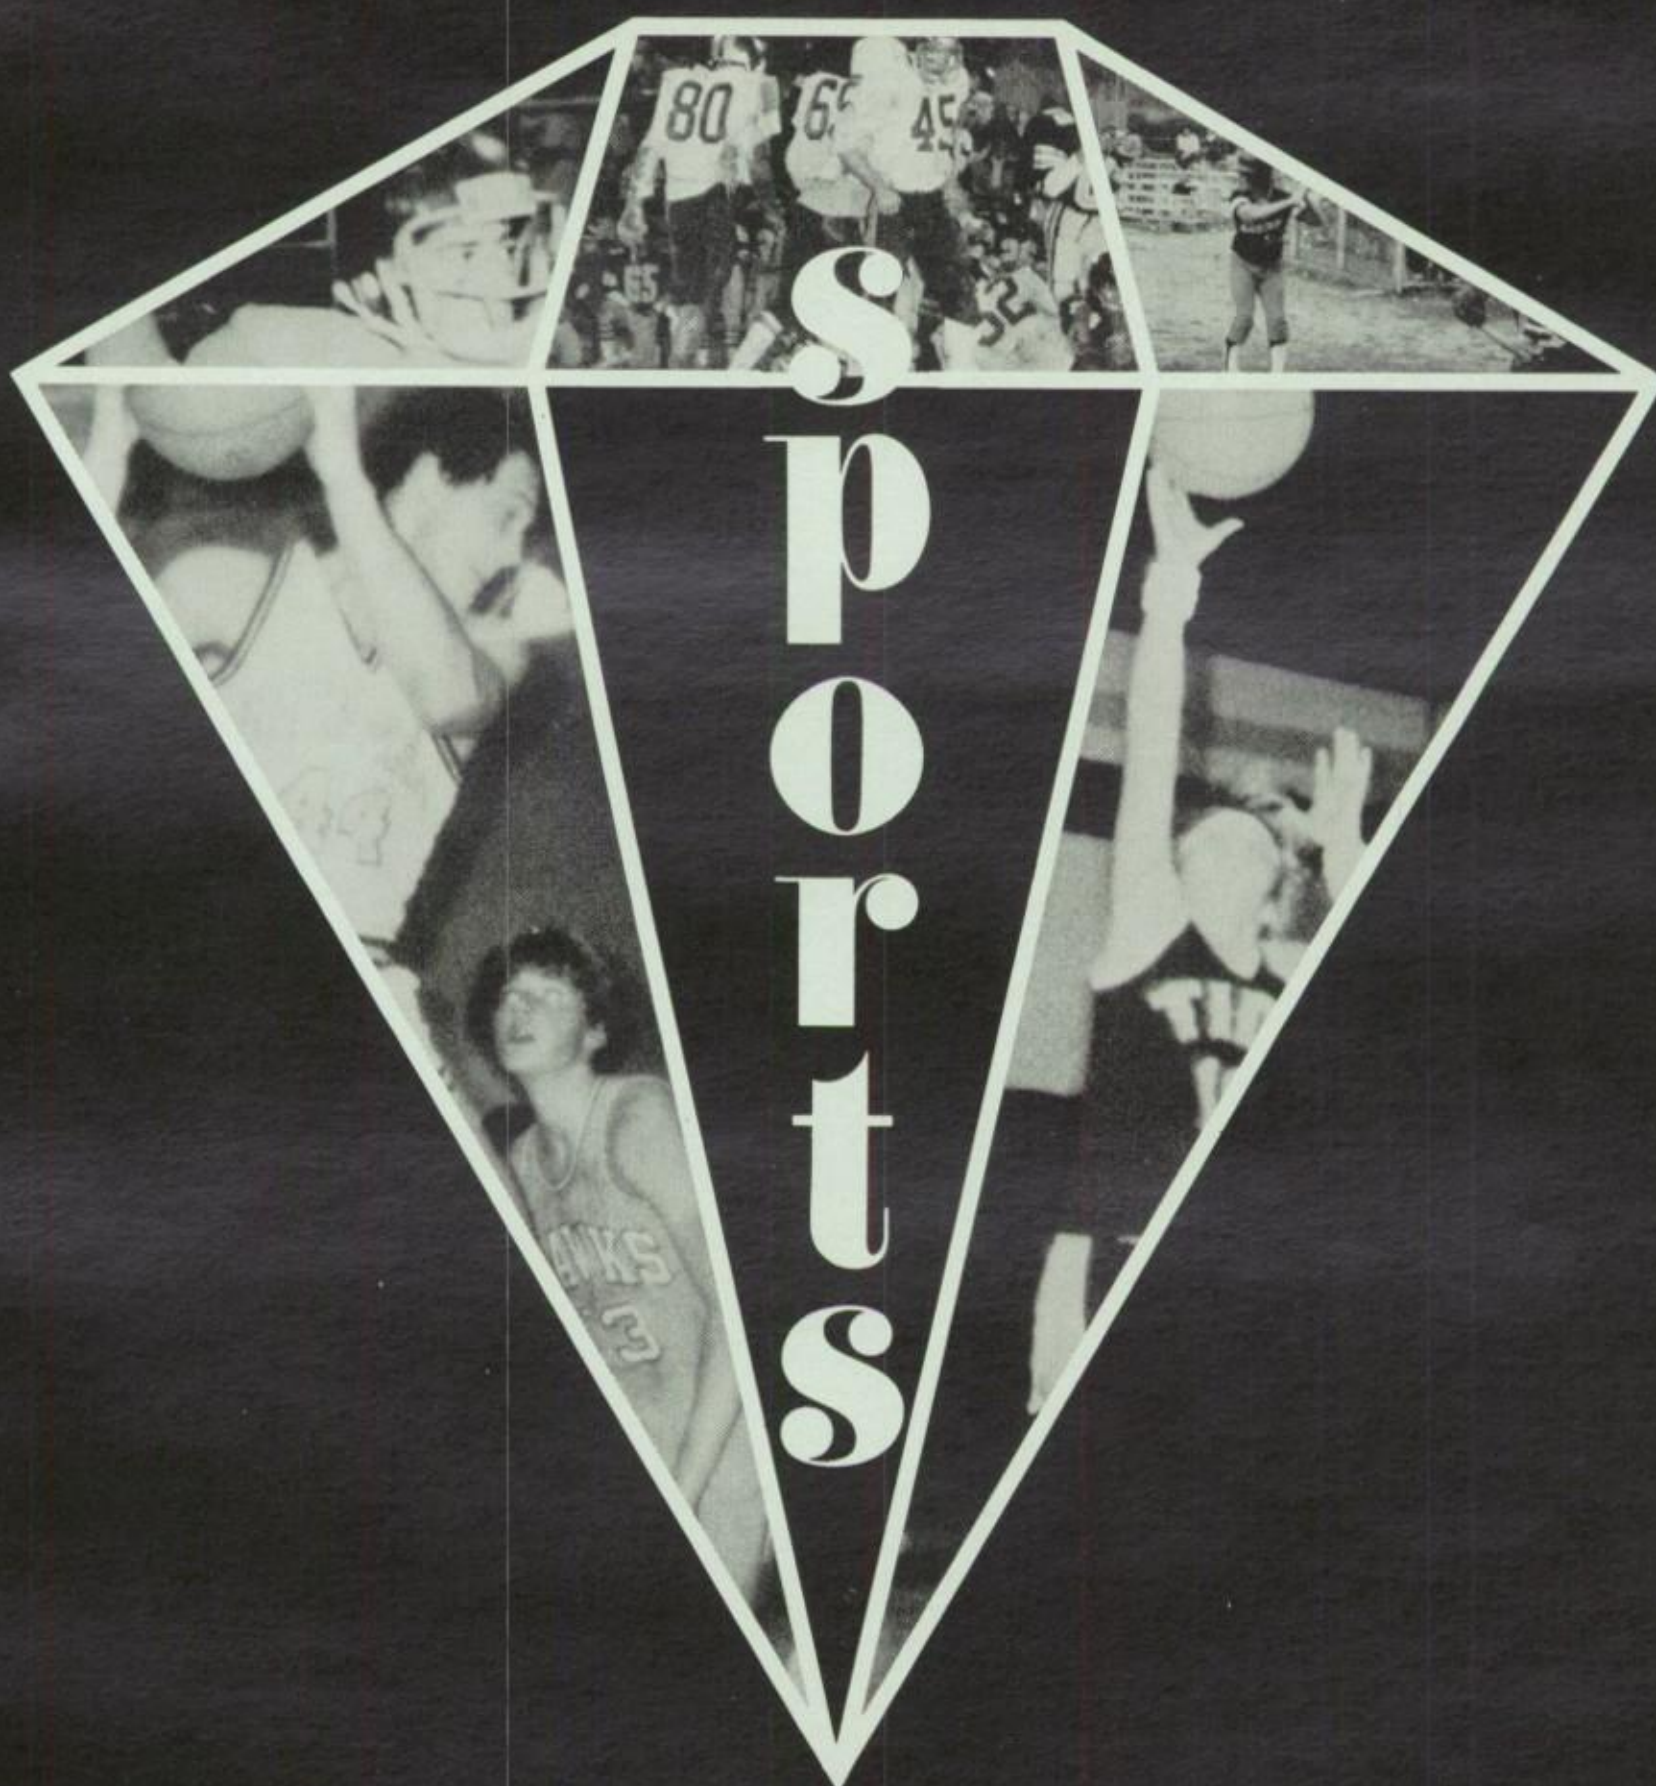

The Reagan Magic: Working Again?

He called it a "difficult personal decision," and delayed it as long as possible. But after a bravura State of the Union address, in which he declared that "America is back," Ronald Reagan appeared on prime-time television to announce that he, too, is back—as a candidate for re-

Showdown on Super Tuesday

Gary Hart and his flying media circus barnstormed across the South, swooping down for airport rallies, saturating television—and feeding on the enthusiasm of Democrats abandoning former front runner Walter Mondale. The incredible events of Campaign '84 were unfolding too quickly for anybody to chart confidently. But Hart extended his victory string of primaries and caucuses—and Mondale, his frustration showing, was campaigning feverishly to regain some momentum.

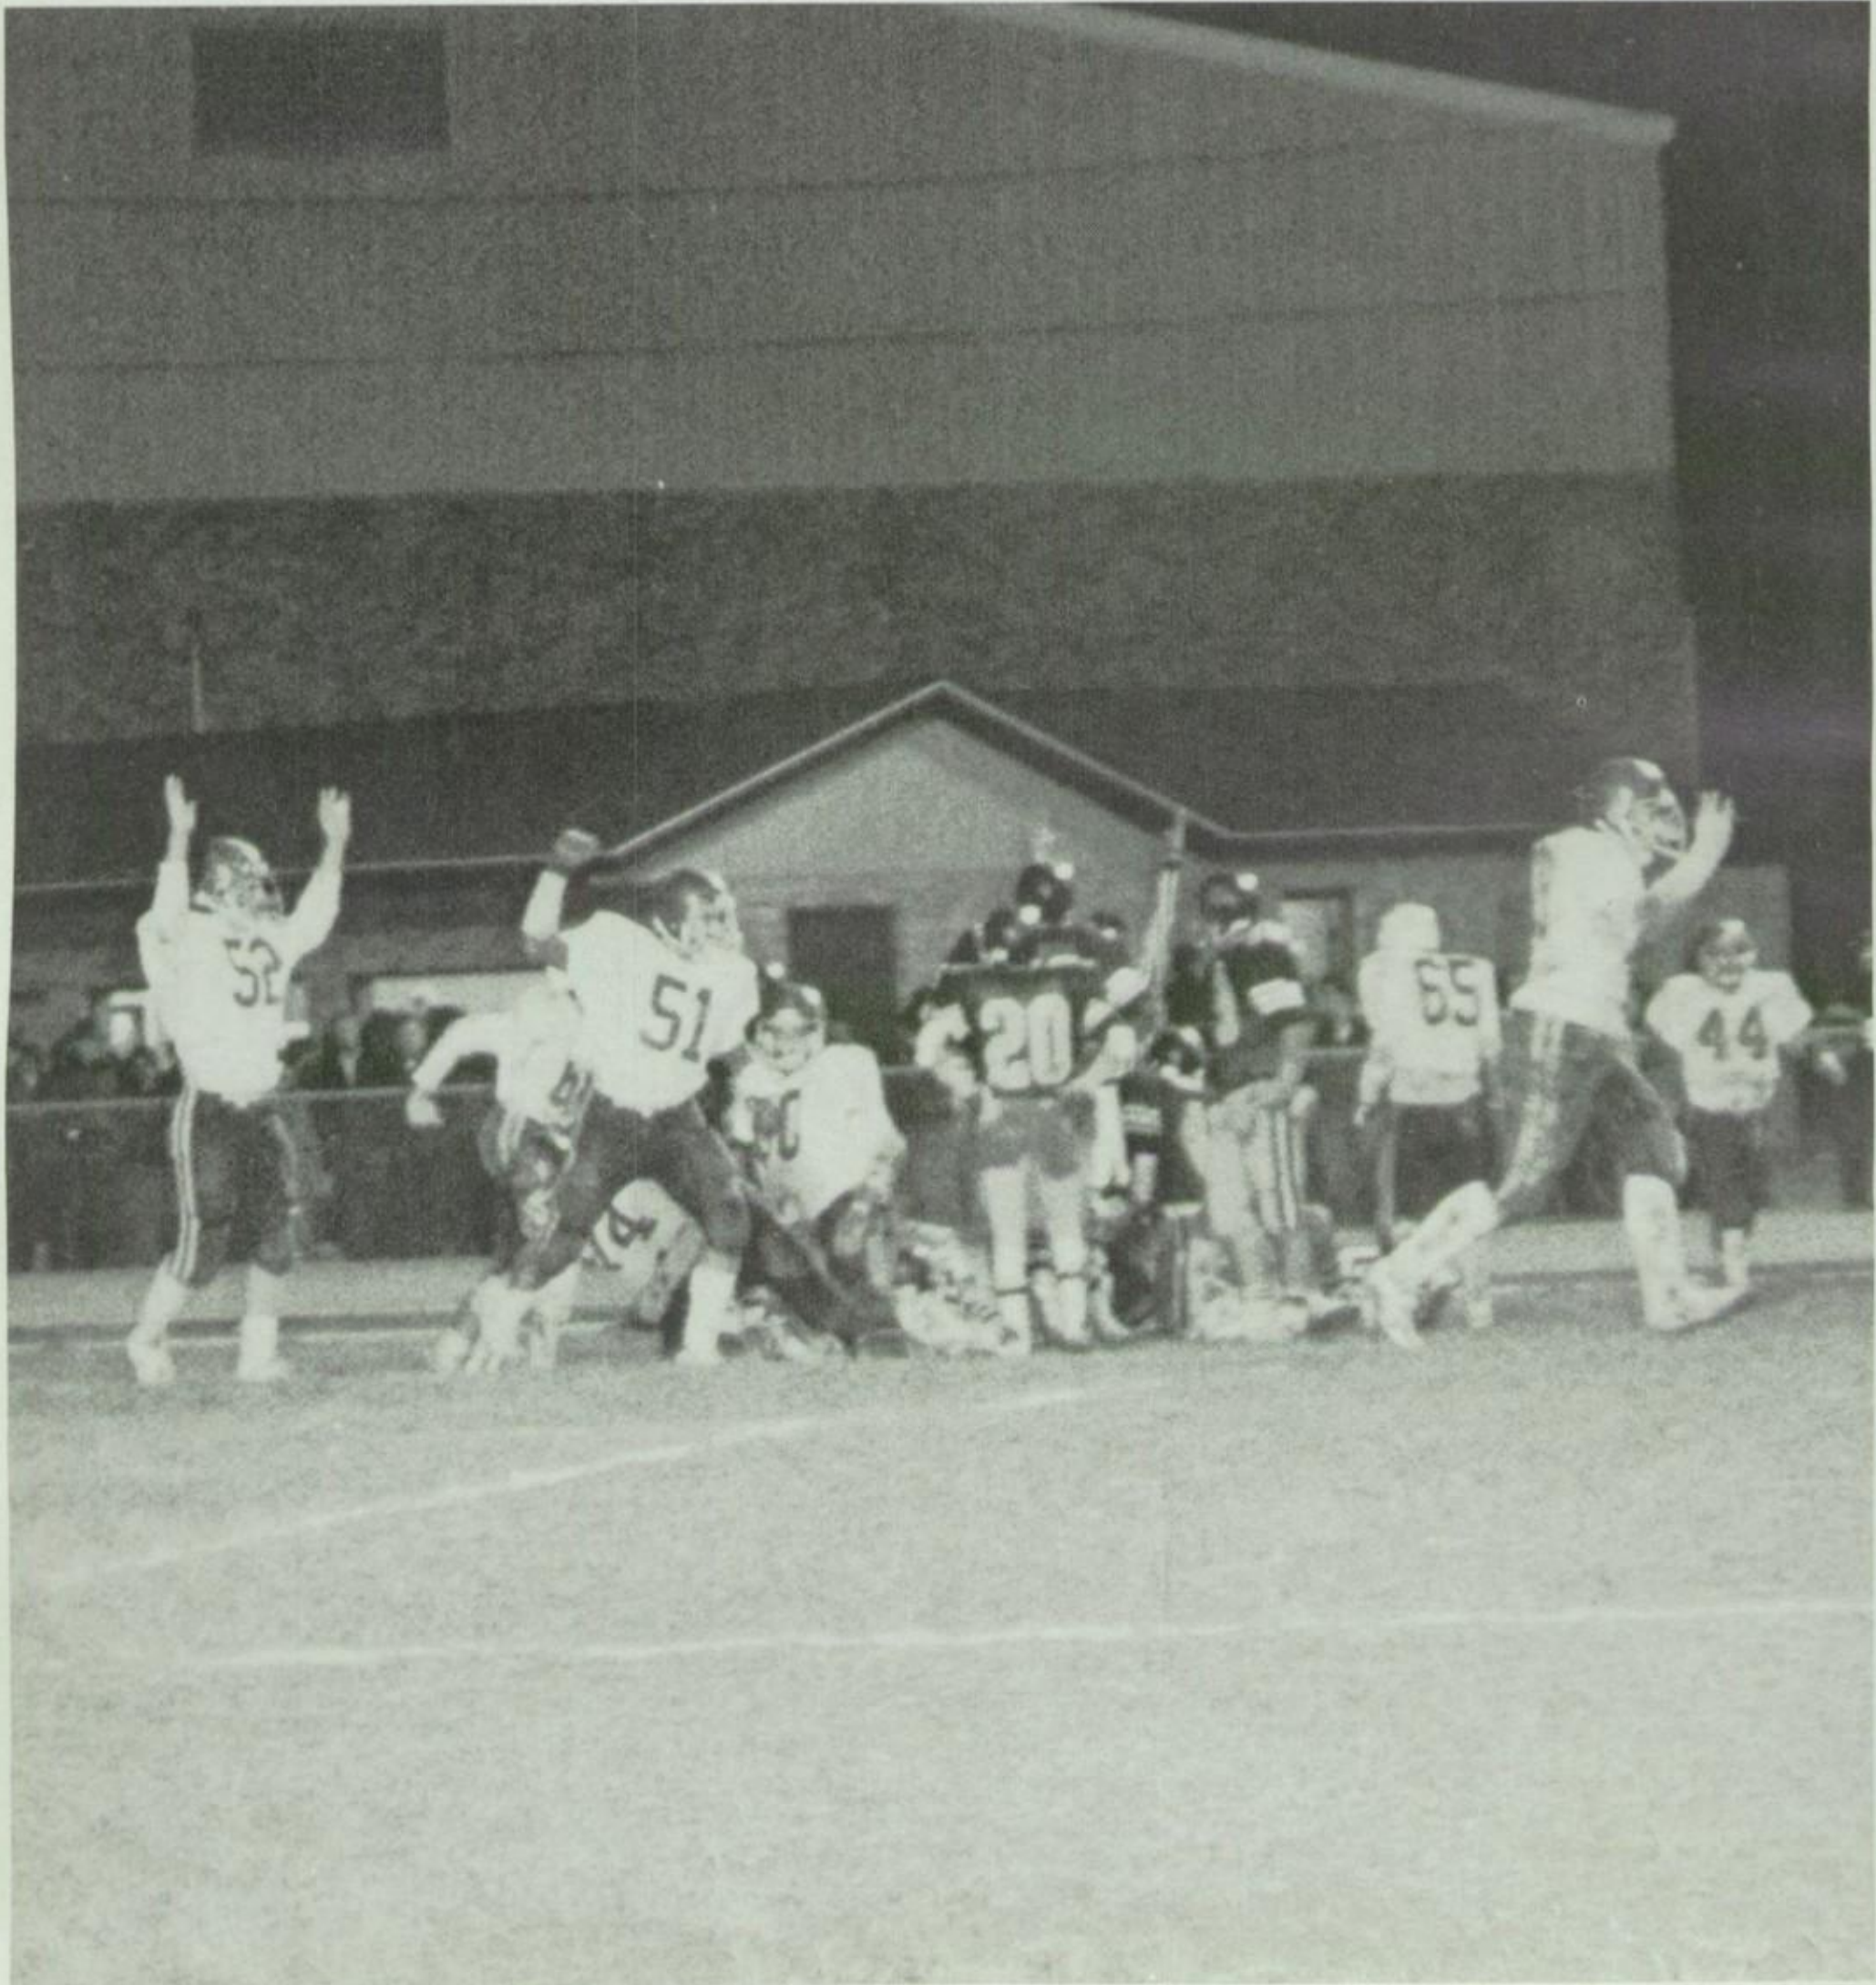

7-3 Season Due To Hard Work

"Our winning record can be attributed to a hard-working group of young men," said Head Coach Mickey Brown. "With the schedule we played, we couldn't have had a more outstanding season. The sixteen seniors who were very dedicated to weight lifting and conditioning will really be missed next season."

Some outstanding players received outstanding honors. Tim Linsky was named to the All-State First Team in the position of guard. Tony Gurski and Scott Krepps were selected for the All-State Second Team in defense. Gurski was also named CVN's Offensive Player of Year.

CVN selected several players for the All-Boone County football Team: OFFENSE - Scott Krepps, Tim Linsky, Tony Gurski, capt., Brian McCormick. DEFENSE - Keith Henderson, Scott Krepps, Tony Gurski. Special Honorable Mention went to Larry McNeely, and Jimmy Halstead; Honorable Mention to Paul Gray, Freddie Simmons, Eddie Daniel, Keith Henderson, Jackie McNeely, Brian McCormick, Jeff Hill, Jimmy Fink and Brett Banks.

Tide Closes Season With A Win

Although the season was a disappointing one for the Tide, a seven-game losing streak was broken with a 60-59 win over Charleston Catholic, the last game of the regular season. Inexperience and size seemed to be the culprits of the season. The only player with previous varsity experience was Scott Krepps. Scott made his presence known by earning a berth on the Southern AA All-Conference team. Another stand-out was Brett Banks who was named to the second squad.

1984 Baseball At A Glance

Despite the wet spring, the diamond nine had another rewarding season. The Tide won the County and Sectional Championships, only to fall in the first round of the regional tournament, 2-1.

Overall it was an excellent season having to fill six positions from the '83 season. The seniors showed good leadership. As a result, the whole team worked very hard. After the rain clouds cleared, the Tide rolled to a 13-8 season, losing five games by only one run.

Tony Gurski, Rob Nelson and Keith Henderson made the All-Southern Conference team. Seniors who excelled were Tony Gurski as the Most Valuable Player, Rob Nelson with the Golden Glove Award, Keith Henderson, Pitching Award; Kevin Kirk, Infield Award; Jim Fink, Outfield Award; Brian McCormick, Relief Pitching and Outfield Awards; and Freddie Simmons, Catching Award.

Next year will be a rebuilding year for us, but several proven players will be back in '85: Jackie McNeely, Brett Banks, Tim Cook, David Doss, Jerry Arehart.

Band Is Dubbed "The Golden Band"

"The 1983-84 Sherman High Band should always be remembered as 'The Golden Band,'" said band leader Louie Reinacher, "for everything we touched turned to gold. It should be the goal of future bands to equal or surpass this band in its accomplishments."

The band first attended the Black Walnut Festival in October where they received the following awards: 1st place twirler, 1st place majorette corps, 1st place parade band, 1st place band in marching and maneuvering, and grand champion.

Next, they attended and won the Boone County Invitational Parade. They received $200 for this victory. Finally, they ended the year by being the only band which auditioned at Huntington High to receive three superior ratings.

"The band has made a tremendous improvement in the last couple of years," said Mark Atkins, band instructor. "Mr. Reinacher and I feel that it will continue to improve. The pride, determination and attitude of the members is a credit to the community of Seth and to Boone County."

Busy Year For Majorettes

"This was an especially busy year for the majorettes. Special thanks goes to a dedicated and hard-working head majorette, Shelly Arnold. Upon the announcement in May of the new corp members, majorettes must begin preparing for full steam ahead.

"June, school is out but practice is in full swing, as the girls shape up for Novelty Night at camp. July, we headed for Buckhannon for a week of countless hours of new learning skills and challenges. We returned home with 1st Place Novelty and the Grand National Award.

"August rushed in daily practices to learn fundamentals and routines that are halftime show stoppers and perfect the year round. The season ushered in many scheduled activities such as The Black Walnut Festival in October where 1st place honors were received. Other activities included the Christmas parade in Whitesville, the County Band Parade and other school programs.

"The Hamlin Majorette Festival brought two 1st place trophies. We also received honors at the Huntington Band Festival.

"When your group is as dependable as the air you breathe, your level of motivation is higher, your goals are unending and the satisfaction is beyond belief."

Cheerleaders Make Sponsoring Easy

"The cheerleaders represented Sherman very well during football and basketball seasons. While they won few awards, this was the easiest year of sponsoring I have ever had.

"Under the leadership of Head Cheerleader Carolyn Darby, all activities were performed with ease and each cheerleader had an enjoyable year."

Cheerleader Dilemma

On the night of the tournaments when we cheerleaders were being judged, everyone was a wreck because the time to be judged was getting closer.

We were putting on our uniforms when Cheryl discovered her sweater was wrinkled. Miss Kinder asked Jim Elswick and Keith Griffy to take us home to put the sweater in the dryer.

On the way out to the car I stepped in a mud hole and got my shoes filthy. On the way Cheryl spilt pop on her sweater. At home we cleaned the sweater, but I still needed to clean my shoes. I put baby powder on them, but then wiped my hands on my skirt. With just ten minutes left, we finally got everything together and got a second place in the judging.

Student Council Serves All

The list of student council activities was staggering; however, here goes. They helped teachers before school started, were teacher inservice guides, helped with orientation, did the student handbook, organized pep rallies, Homecoming, College Day, Scott Week, got busses for away games, held dances, arranged for the Christmas assembly, took responsibility for the election of class officers and Miss Homecoming.

The council organized club days, had the Valentine carnation sale, along with the 4-H Club planted over 100 shrubs in front of the school and had a very successful Bloodmobile.

Some people worked especially hard to make the club successful: The officers, Jim Elswick, Brett Banks, Vickie Martin and Mary Ann Helvey; Committee chairpersons, Fred Simmons (Clean-up), Robin Berry and Denise Mason (Christmas assembly), Jenny Baber (Club Day), Mitzi Rowland (Honor); Others who accepted extra responsibilities were Amy White, Cami Burdette, Keith Griffy, Tammy Maynard, Galen Garretson and Mike Cantley.

"WE'VE GOT TONIGHT"

"This is the prettiest prom I can ever remember!" was the comment overheard again and again the night of the big event. To the Class of '84

We've traveled the path of life thus far walking hand in hand.
But a fork in the road approaches soon
where alone we'll have to stand.
Fate alone will lead you on along your separate way.
We shall take another path,
but we'll meet again some day.
We are here to celebrate and say a sad good-bye.
Some may laugh a joyous laugh,
others will surely cry.
Perhaps we shouldn't say good-bye,
instead we'll say so-long.
So-long, Seniors of 1984
we give to you our prom.

Award's Day - An

Tammy Adkins, Charles Steele, and Mike Thompson received the award for Academic Achievement.

Libby Taylor approaches the stage for her award.

The person who accepts responsibility makes himself stand out from the others in school, an office, a factory or in any walk in life, and he is the one who gets ahead. Welcome responsibility. Do this in little things and in big things, and success will come to you.

"Take your passion and make it happen."

"Make a commitment to be your best, and be prepared to make the necessary sacrifices."

"Don't be afraid to fail."

"Don't make excuses for not succeeding."

"Have some goals and be the best you can be."

"Respect authority. Give something back to the community, family and school that sponsored you."

"Leave your mark in history."

CHRISTMAS AT SHERMAN

German Classes Show The Story Of "Silent Night"

The German classes dramatized the story of the mice that ate holes in the organ billows which necessitated the emergency writing and setting to music of the most famous Christmas carol of all.

The Circus Is Coming To Town

to Micky Joe.
I have so much to say, but it's probably better to tell & write them. > I've completely changed my life in the past couple of weeks, & know as have.
We have a very good thing here, & I don't intend to lose it. We can never lose it as long as we trust each other. That's the key to everything we'll ever have - TRUST. > I think we both know that we can't feel the same towards each other as we have because our relationship is totally different.
I want to make you happy & I also want to make you proud of me. I don't ever want to disappoint you in any way. > I love to make you happy & know what you like. That's so important to me. > When laugh, & I'm sure of it. And going to go far one of these days, by the way. > I want when you do, I want you to be just another know that Jim always goes to bed. I don't breathe away. > I want you to be alone ever the kind of person who wants to be alone the need of someone, & I'm how my best to show & need you much

(sorry ^{she} about ^{up-hill} writing)

I guess this is about it... u know the rest w/out being told. You'll never be alone as long as u want me as much as we want & need each other right now. We're right & each other, Mick, we both know it no one can ever change that - no matter how hard or how long they try. What we have is too strong.

Keep me in your thoughts - u're in mine 61 minutes of each hour & 25 hours of each day.

Stay the way u are now - no matter what happens to u or me or us together. Stay "primitive".
